Presenters

Drayton BLACKGROVE, Brooklyn, Michigan

My YouTube Story, Sunday, 11:00 A.M.

Blackgrove runs the film production company Delay In Block Productions, which he started while in high school. He began capturing trains on video when he was 13 and was soon gaining followers on YouTube. Throughout high school and college, he built his subscriber base to become one of the largest online railroad media outlets in the modern age, with more than 45,000 followers. Turning his passion into a successful business, he was able to pay for his own college education at a private institute, studying film production and digital media.

Katherine BOTKIN, Centennial, Colorado

What I Did for Love, Saturday, 8:45 A.M.

Botkin has been photographing trains and railroad subjects since the late 1970s. Born and raised in Minneapolis, she attended the University of Minnesota, majoring in art. She began her career as a graphic designer with the Pillsbury Company, ultimately directing food photography and producing cookbooks. She was introduced to railroad photography after marrying Bill Botkin, an avid railroad photographer and past conference presenter. Kate decided to become actively involved and has traveled to more than a dozen countries in pursuit of steam.

Jean BUBLEY, Brooklyn, New York

Granger Route: The Photography of Esther Bubley, Saturday, 9:30 A.M.

Bubley is the niece of photojournalist Esther Bubley and the owner and director of the Esther Bubley photographic archive. Since inheriting the archive in 1998, Jean has endeavored to preserve and promote her late aunt's work. Being a software developer and project manager, Jean put together a team of experts in art history and photographic preservation. Their efforts have resulted in several exhibitions and the placement of Esther's work in the collections of numerous prestigious museums. Learn more at: www.estherbubley.com

Alexander Benjamin CRAGHEAD, Oakland, California

J.B. Jackson and the Archaeological Turn in American Photography of Railroads, Sunday, 11:45 A.M.

Originally from Oregon, Craghead is a writer, photographer, watercolorist, and a historian of design and place. His publications include Railway Palaces of Portland, Oregon, a regular column for Railfan & Railroad magazine, and numerous articles in magazines including Trains and the Center's Railroad Heritage, which he recently helped to redesign. He is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Architecture at the University of California at Berkeley, where he now teaches the course founded by J.B. Jackson more than fifty years ago.

Dan CUPPER, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania Railroad Calendar Art of Grif Teller, Sunday, 9:45 A.M.

Cupper is a historian and author focusing on railroad, highway, and Pennsylvania topics while enjoying a second career as a Norfolk Southern locomotive engineer. His ten books include The Pennsylvania Railroad Calendar Art of Grif Teller, which won the 1993 book award from the Railway & Locomotive Historical Society. A Pennsylvania native with a journalism degree from Penn State, both his grandfather and great-grandfather worked for the Pennsylvania Railroad. Dan and his wife Shirley live in suburban Harrisburg and have two adult sons.

Nicholas FRY, St. Louis, Missouri

Adventures in Editing: The making of J.J. Young's Steam and Diesel Era in Wheeling, West Virginia, Saturday, 3:15 P.M.

Fry has been the curator of the John W. Barriger III National Railroad Library since 2012. He holds both B.A. and M.A. degrees in history from the University of Maryland-Baltimore County, as well as a master's degree in library and information sciences from Drexel University. He previously worked in government records facilities including the NASA Center for Aerospace Information, and by avocation he has managed the archives of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Historical Society and its research activities for the past decade.

Eric E. HIRSIMAKI, North Olmsted, Ohio

Photography at the Lima Locomotive Works, Sunday, 9:00 A.M.

Born in 1947 in Conneaut, Ohio, Hirsimaki has a degree in civil engineering from Ohio Northern University and a master's in industrial administration from Purdue. He worked for more than four decades in the Great Lakes shipping industry, from which he retired in 2011. He has written extensively about railroads and Great Lakes shipping, and he is well known in both fields. He lives in North Olmsted, Ohio, with his wife Beverly. They have three children—Amy, Adrienne, and David.

John P. KELLY, Madison, Wisconsin

Milwaukee Road's Beer Line, Saturday, 2:00 P.M.

Kelly grew up in Eau Claire, Wisconsin, where his dad's best friend, a Chicago & North Western engineer, gave him and his brother occasional midnight cab rides. Retired from the Wisconsin Technical College System as a computer specialist, he was a volunteer docent with the Trails & Rails program aboard Amtrak's Empire Builder and Southwest Chief. His many books include Railroads of Milwaukee, produced by Heimburger House Publishing in 2015. He lives with his partner Linda Shult and Border Collie, Gypsy, and he volunteers at the Center's office.

Dennis LIVESEY, New York, New York

Smoke Over Steamtown, Saturday, 2:00 P.M.

As a child Livesey was hit by the New Haven, Lionel, and Lucius Beebe. He emerged a railfan, earned a degree from New York University, and had a 35-year career in cinematography where he interacted with such luminaires as Rocky Balboa, Tony Soprano, Madonna, Mel Gibson, and Kermit the Frog. Currently he is a Pro Video expert at B&H, the largest non-chain electronics store in the U.S. Shooting trains since June 6, 1961, Livesey finds that capturing steam and New York's subways fills him with an excitement just as fantastic as that first day.

Alan MILLER, Santiago, Chile

From SoCal to Chile, Saturday, 10:45 A.M.

Born in Los Angeles in 1942, Miller grew up in Glendale next to Southern Pacific's main line to San Francisco. As a child, he and his father walked two blocks to SP's Glendale station to watch the daily parade of passenger and freight trains. As a result, Miller has spent more than sixty years photographing trains worldwide. Since 2008, he has lived with his wife Gloria Paschen and son Sebastian in Santiago, Chile, where he and Gloria were married in 1993. He has been a public finance investment banker/municipal advisor for more than fifty years.

Adam NORMANDIN, Los Angeles, California

All in the Details, Saturday, 11:30 A.M.

Contemporary artist Adam Normandin is best known for his photorealist style of painting and for his body of work based upon freight trains. He lives and works in southern California but frequently can be found exploring rail yards across the country with his camera, in search of inspiration. Back in his studio, Normandin uses the computer to help shape and enhance his photographs into ideas for paintings. His work is exhibited at top galleries and museums across the nation, and his paintings are coveted by collectors around the world.

James J. REISDORFF, David City, Nebraska

Granger Route: The Photography of Esther Bubley, Saturday, 9:30 A.M.

Reisdorff is the founder of South Platte Press, which publishes railroad-related titles dealing mainly with the western United States. Since 1982, South Platte Press has published about 100 books for a number of authors. Reisdorff has personally written or co-authored twenty of them, including Burlington Route in Focus with Michael Bartels. A 1978 journalism graduate of Creighton University, Reisdorff is otherwise a newspaper correspondent and history researcher. He shares a love of books with his wife and business partner, Shari Reisdorff.

David STYFFE, Fullerton, California

A Printer's View of Railroad Photography, Saturday, 4:00 P.M.

Born in 1951, Styffe is a fifth generation Californian who grew up surrounded by railroads and model trains. He started work as a young boy in the print shop owned by his grandfather and father, where he later published or printed several railroad calendars and books, including Wheels Rolling—West by Ted Benson and himself. He was at Gardner Lithograph while they were printers for Ansel Adams, and he now works in digital graphics for Rancho Santiago Community College. He and his wife Amy have four children and seven grandchildren.

Meet the Band

Paul WERTICO

Hailed as "one of the most versatile and musical drummers in music today," Paul Wertico was a member of the Pat Metheny Group from 1983 to 2001. During that time, he won seven Grammy Awards (three for Best Jazz Fusion Performance, three for Best Contemporary Jazz Performance, and one for Best Rock Instrumental Performance), topped numerous magazine polls, received several gold records, and played drums and percussion for David Bowie.

Paul is also very active in the field of education. In addition to teaching drums privately, he is an associate professor of jazz studies at Roosevelt University's Chicago College of Performing Arts. Before becoming a full-time faculty member at CCPA, he served on the wind and percussion faculty of Northwestern University for 16 years. For four decades, he has conducted drum masterclasses, clinics, and workshops around the world. He is on the education committee of the Jazz Institute of Chicago, and he served five terms on the board of governors of The Recording Academy Chicago Chapter.

Paul has performed in all 50 states and more than 60 countries. In 2004, he was a Chicago Tribune "Chicagoan of the Year." In 2010, the Cape Breton International Drum Festival honored him with a Lifetime Achievement Award for his "Major Contribution To The World Of Drumming & Education," and that year he was also a recipient of the Montréal Drum Fest's Lifetime Achievement Award.

David CAIN

David Cain is one-third of Wertico Cain & Gray, a spontaneous music trio featuring Paul Wertico and Larry Gray. The trio won the Best Live Performance Album in the 13th Annual Independent Music Awards. David plays tenor sax, electronic midi instruments, iPads, and vocals. He has written for orchestra, chamber orchestra, jazz band, and radio music. His band was on the roster of Geffen Records in the 80s. A bonafide risk taker of the music and art canvas, Cain explores remarkable new frontiers of sound and vision.

As a former Apple Evangelist, David designed the first Apple computer choir sample startup sound. He started his production company UMEDIA in 1986, and has produced award-winning local, national, and international programs. His films have been screened at SXSW, the Portland International Film Festival, and Route 66 Film Festival, among others. He is an artist-in-Residence at the Hoogland Center for the Arts in Springfield, Illinois, and he was a Founding Faculty Member of the Illinois Summer School for the Arts at Illinois State University.

John MOULDER

John Moulder is a guitarist and composer whose music has evolved from an assimilation of many traditions. His most recent release, Earthborn Tales of Soul and Spirit (Origin 2016), features Donny McCaslin, Marquis Hill, Paul Wertico, and many other long-time musical companions. Inspired by soulful individuals, the album has been described as a contemporary musical narrative. Prior to being released, Earthborn Tales was a featured performance for the 2014 Made in Chicago concert series in Millennium Park.

John's compositions and playing are featured on his CDs entitled Awakening (Mo-Tonal Records 1993), Through the Open Door (Igmod/Mo-Tonal Records 1997), Spirit Talk (NAIM 2003), Trinity (Origin 2006), and Bifrost (Origin 2009). Trinity and Bifrost were each named one of the ten best jazz CDs of 2006 and 2009 respectively by the Chicago Tribune. On The Eleventh Hour: Live at the Green Mill (Origin 2012), John collaborates with his long time friends and musical companions, Paul Wertico, Larry Gray, Jim Trompeter, and Geof Bradfield.

Print Program

Two new, limited edition prints debut at Conversations 2017: David Styffe's After a Spring Rain, Azusa, California, 1991 and Jeff Brouws's Akron, Ohio, 2014. Each is available in an edition of ten, signed on the back by the artist. They will be sold at the conference for $250 each, and the first buyer of each print will receive free matting. Prints still available will be sold at www.railphoto-art.org for $250 plus shipping.

About the Print Program

Since 2009, the print program has offered the opportunity to collect important railroad photographs at affordable prices while providing financial support for the Center. As with similar programs at other art-based nonprofits, the Center prices its photographs well below the gallery rates of San Francisco, New York, and Chicago. The selection and prices give incentives to collectors to purchase artwork they like while helping an organization they believe in.

For context, consider that fine-art photography prints from major artists now range from $3,000 to $7,500 (David Plowden) up to half-a-million dollars for artists such as Andreas Gursky. Photographs by Mel Patrick, Howard Pincus, Wayne Depperman, John Gruber, and Richard Steinheimer that appeared in the Starlight on the Rails show at the Robert Mann Gallery in 2000 brought $750 to $1,500 each. Plowden prints once sold for $125; the asking price today regularly exceeds $3,000.

Collecting photography is fun and rewarding. Foremost, it brings aesthetic pleasure; secondarily, it can prove a better investment than many stocks. You can see the prints themselves on display at this year's conference, and they will be available until the editions sell out. We will continue to unveil new selections in the same price range each year, featuring them also on the website. If you have suggestions for future participating photographers, please let us know.

Additional Prints Available

In addition to the two images from this year's print program, you may peruse and purchase past works from previous years. One of each print is available with matting at no additional charge on a first-come, first-served basis. Each print in David Styffe's exhibition is also available for purchase. Quantity discounts apply on all print purchases: $250 for the first print, and $200 for each additional print.

Book Sales and Signings

Eight titles will be available this year at the Saturday reception. As in the past, sales will take place in Glen Rowan House's library (the large room on the left immediately upon entering), while the authors will be seated in the sun porch at the rear of Glen Rowan for signings.

If you previously reserved a book by mail, simply show your name tag to a staff member at the sales table, who will verify your name on the pre-order list and provide you with your book.

Please note that all books are available in limited quantities and will be sold on a first come, first served basis.

The Center can accept cash, check, and credit card payments.

As in recent years at the conference, two photographers have donated prints that the Center has framed and matted that you can win in raffle drawings.

Jeff Mast's photograph features Pere Marquette steam locomotive no. 1225 during a photo runby near Owosso, Michigan, in 2007. The image was used for the cover of Kevin P. Keefe's book about the locomotive, Twelve Twenty-Five, and the winner will receive a signed copy of the book in addition to the photograph. The 13×19 archival pigment print is matted and framed in black metal to 20×24 inches.

Renowned photographer David Plowden has again donated a photograph for the raffle. His archival pigment print shows Canadian Pacific's "Scoot" mixed train crossing Ship Pond Viaduct in Maine in 1960 and is 11×14 inches, made by Plowden himself, matted, and framed in black metal to 20×24 inches.

The drawing for Mast's print will be held at dinner on Friday; Plowden's will be drawn on Saturday.

Raffle Tickets

Ticket prices for each raffle are $10 each, $25 for three, or $40 for five. You may purchase tickets on Friday evening for both raffles, and on Saturday morning for the Plowden raffle.

David Plowden: Canadian Pacific's "Scoot" on Ship Pond Viaduct in Maine in March 1960.

Docent Program

The Center is delighted to welcome four new docents to this year's Conversations. They are Will Jordan of Six Mile, South Carolina; Michael Karlik of Denver, Colorado; Evan Lofback of Maryville, Tennessee; and Zezhou Wang of Urbana, Illinois.

Jordan is a 15-year-old high school freshman who lives in upstate South Carolina near Clemson. His interest in trains has been existent for as long as he can remember. After getting his hands on a point-and-shoot digital camera at age eight, he has loved photographing railroads ever since and has nearly 600 images on the popular RailPictures.net website.

Karlik grew up in Virginia and began photographing railroads at age 14, asking his parents to drop him off at the commuter rail station near his home during the evening rush hour. He edited the newsletter for the Washington, D.C. Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society for six years after attending its 2003 RailCamp in Steamtown on a scholarship. He holds B.A. degrees in history and government, and a master's in leadership and public policy, all from the University of Virginia. In Denver, he is a part-time administrative assistant as well as a podcaster and writer. He also spent the past summer working as a motorman and conductor for the Denver Trolley. As a photographer, he seeks to find and tell the stories of contemporary railroading.

Lofback grew up watching trains with his father, grandfather, and uncle in Tampa, Florida. At the age of 13, he began recording their trips on video and had produced his first feature-length documentary by age 16. In 2011, Evan and his family moved to Maryville, Tennessee, where he currently works in the Information Technology field and lives with his wife, Alexa, and Miniature Schnauzer, Walter. From 2014 to 2016, he researched, wrote, and directed And Then There Was One, a feature-length documentary focusing on the life and times of Southern Railway steam locomotive no. 4501. Evan continues to produce semi-professional railroad videos and still photos in his free time.

Wang is pursuing a master's degree in railroad engineering at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Originally from China's Shaanxi Province, he received a B.S. degree in electronic information engineering from Beihang University in Beijing. He grew up traveling by train and began photographing railroads while in high school after receiving a Nikon DSLR camera as a gift from an uncle. He has traveled extensively throughout China to photograph its remaining steam operations. Wang learned of the Center and this conference after meeting Ronald Olsen in Essex, Connecticut, while photographing the Valley Railroad's Chinese-built 2-8-2 steam locomotive.

Each of the docents has received a scholarship for free registration, two nights of lodging, and travel expenses, thanks to the generous support of the conference's patrons. (See the list of patrons below the table of contents.)

Directors, Officers, and Staff

Jeff Brouws, Stanfordville, New York, brings the Center knowledge of 19th and 20th century photography and a broad background in publishing, with seven photography books to his credit. His photographs can be found in numerous public and private collections.

Norman Carlson, Lake Forest, Illinois, spent thirty-four years with Arthur Anderson where he led the transportation industry practice for eleven years. He is president of the Shore Line Interurban Historical Society and managing editor of its publication First & Fastest.

T. Bondurant French (Chair), Glen Ellyn, Illinois, is the executive chairman of Adams Street Partners, one of the largest and oldest managers of private equity investment in the world. A lifelong rail enthusiast, Bon has photographed some 700 different railroads.

H. Roger Grant, Clemson, South Carolina, is a professor of history at Clemson and an active writer of railroad history. His dozens of books include company histories of several railroads. He is a native of Albion, Iowa, and previously taught at the University of Akron.

John Gruber (Past President), Madison, Wisconsin, is the author or coauthor of seven railroad books. He received awards from the Railway & Locomotive Historical Society for photography and an article about Lucius Beebe and Charles Clegg's photography.

Nona Hill (Treasurer), Madison, Wisconsin, and Clark Johnson, her husband, manage High Iron Travel, operator of the Caritas, the most widely traveled private car in America. She helps lead multiple passenger rail advocacy groups in Wisconsin.

David Kahler (Vice-President), Pittsboro, North Carolina, has practiced architecture for more than thirty years and has been recognized by his peers as a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He remains active as a consultant and advisor.

Kevin P. Keefe, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, recently retired as vice-president-editorial for Kalmbach Publishing Co. He served as editor of Trains from 1992 to 2000. As a student at Michigan State, he worked on Pere Marquette steam locomotive no. 1225.

Scott Lothes (President and Executive Director), Madison, Wisconsin, joined the Center's staff in 2008. He is a regular contributor to Trains and other railroad publications, with more than fifty bylined articles and some 500 photographs in print.

Albert O. Louer, Williamsburg, Virginia, recently retired as Director of Principal Gifts at the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. He worked in museums for fifty years and has research and collecting interests in the Pullman Co. and midwestern railroads.

Peter Mosse, New York, New York, grew up in England and moved to the U.S. in 1977 to set up a precious metals trading subsidiary for the UK Rothschild banking group. He began collecting railroad paintings in 1980 and now owns more than 150 original works.

Jordan Radke (Archives Manager), Madison, Wisconsin, received a master's degree from UW-Madison's School of Library Information Studies in 2014. He has worked in the archives of Wisconsin Public Radio and UW's engineering department.

Michael P. Schmidt (Secretary), Owosso, Michigan, is an orthopedic surgeon and a collector of railroad photographs and paintings. He is Vice Chief of Staff, Chief of Surgery, and serves on the board of trustees of his hospital.

Richard Tower, San Francisco, California, has spent much of his career in the railroad industry with Southern Pacific and Amtrak, and as a consultant. With his wife Caroline, he manages the Candelaria Fund, which supports many community organizations.

Michael R. Valentine, Ferndale, Michigan, is Manager, Training Product Group, Leoni Engineering Products & Services, Inc. He has had more than 200 photographs published in Trains and other periodicals and books in the U.S. and Europe.

The Center for Railroad Photography & Art is a national nonprofit arts and education organization founded in 1997 and based in Madison, Wisconsin. As its mission the Center preserves and presents significant images of railroading, interpreting them in publications, exhibitions, and on the Internet.

Efforts to preserve railroad artwork and photographs have led to the Center's amassing an archive of some 200,000 images, including the complete works of several well-known photographers. Full processing of these collections includes housing them in archival-safe storage materials and digitizing the images as well as their captions, or metadata. The Center is actively adding to its archive and conducts these preservation activities both in house and in concert with the Archives & Special Collections of the Donnelley and Lee Library at Lake Forest College.

The Center also collaborates with partners across the country on its presentation work. Foremost is Railroaders: Jack Delano's Homefront Photography, a project with the Chicago History Museum (CHM) that included an exhibition at the museum for nearly two years and an accompanying 200-page catalog published by the Center. They tell the stories of forty-nine Chicagoland railroad workers during World War II and serve as a prime example of the kind of work that can be created from a significant, well-preserved collection of rail photography. As CHM president Gary Johnson said, "Museums with photographic archives, take heed!"

The Center prepares other traveling exhibitions about railroad workers and individual photographers such as David Plowden and O. Winston Link. Venues have included Grand Central Terminal, the California State Railroad Museum, and Milwaukee's Grohmann Museum. Support from the North American Railway Foundation (NARF) led to the long-running Representations of Railroad Work program. All told, the Center has brought some twenty unique exhibitions of significant railroad photography and art to more than seventy venues throughout the country.

Publication of Railroad Heritage, the Center's journal, occurs quarterly. Each issue features work by historic and contemporary photographers and artists plus news of the field. Special issues have honored workers, women in railroading, and individual photographers, and have concisely explained railroad history and preservation.

Each spring going back to 2003, the Center hosts this conference, and all but one have been held on the campus of Lake Forest College. The conference provides a forum for veteran and young photographers alike—as well as artists, historians, editors, and railroaders—to mingle both socially and formally, present and discuss their work, and address photographic and artistic issues. Thanks to the generosity of several conference patrons, the Center recently began offering scholarships to enable young or developing photographers and artists to attend the conference. A regionally-themed northeastern conference was held at the University of Connecticut on October 29, 2016, and its success points the way towards more regional conferences.

The annual John E. Gruber Creative Photography Awards Program recognizes recent work by railroad photographers in the United States and abroad. Named for the Center's principal founder, the awards program includes an exhibition at the California State Railroad Museum and publication in Railfan & Railroad magazine.

Learn more about the Center's work at www.railphoto-art.org, which features images from the archives and includes links to other online platforms at Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Flickr, and Instagram. Follow them to stay abreast of current events and trends in railroad photography and art as well as the Center's research and acquisitions.

John A. Arbuckle
1953–2017

James B. Fox
1942–2017

Two registered attendees passed away just before this year's conference.

John Arbuckle, of Hutchison, Kansas, died just two weeks ago on April 15 at the age of 63. He grew up in Hutchison and earned a bachelor's degree in general studies from the University of Kansas in 1975. He had begun working for the Santa Fe as a station agent after high school, continuing his career with Amtrak until retiring in 2013. He was an accomplished photographer who traveled widely to see, ride, and record trains. Last year was his first conference, and he had been looking forward to attending again this year.

James B. "Jim" Fox, of Dallas Center, Iowa, died on March 12 at the age of 74. He received a B.A. degree in American studies from Grinnell College in 1965 and returned home to Dallas Center to join his father's and grandfather's company, Fox Insurance, founded by his grandfather in 1911. Jim loved all things railroad—so much so that he purchased the abandoned depot of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway in Dallas Center in 1996 and renovated it into his dream office. Jim and his wife Lynn attended Conversations faithfully over the last several years, bringing great enthusiasm each time. He listed the Center for memorial contributions, which led to 35 gifts totaling nearly $2500.

North America's original railroad historical society

As the oldest railroad historical society in North America, founded in 1921, the R&LHS is proud to support the programs of the Center for Railroad Photography & Art.

The award-winning R&LHS journal Railroad History combines scholarly writing and in-depth book reviews with a vibrant format, and is one of the world's premier publications devoted to the history of technology.

Many conference participants are R&LHS members already. We urge you to join their ranks as we explore the history of the railroad industry.

Please visit the R&LHS table and take advantage of bonus copies of Railroad History for those who become members at the conference. Current R&LHS members can also renew and purchase back issues.

Support the Center's Endowment Fund

by making a gift through your estate

To help secure a bright future, and to ensure longterm care for our growing collections and exhibitions, the Center has created an endowment fund. A gift to the fund, established through your estate, can make a lasting impact on the work of the Center for Railroad Photography & Art while costing you nothing during your lifetime. Leaving a legacy in our railroad heritage community is easy. Just ask your attorney or financial advisor to include the boxed language in your will, trust, insurance policy, or other beneficiary designation forms.

Your legacy gift can be directed to support any of our specific programs where you have a particular interest or to provide general support for all of the activities of the Center. In your estate plan, it is important to use the endowment's full and exact name: "Center for Railroad Photography & Art Endowment" (EIN 47-7373395). As a 509(a)(3) nonprofit organization, gifts are tax exempt to the fullest extent permissible by law.

To ensure that your legacy will be established according to your wishes, please get in touch with Scott Lothes, president and executive director, at 608-251-5785 or scott@railphoto-art.org. Your commitment will remain fully confidential.

In addition to estate gifts, we welcome current gifts of cash or securities to the endowment, which will be fully matched by Bon French's challenge.

I give _____% and/or $_____ of my estate to the Center for Railroad Photography & Art Endowment (EIN 47-7373395), 313 Price Place, Suite 13, Madison, Wisconsin, 53705-3262, to provide funding for _____ at the Center or the program(s) most in need as determined by the administration of the Center and its board of directors, and by the trustees of the Center's endowment fund.
